

BIG NOISE FOUND IN LOUD APPLAUSE

Din of Audience Eclipses Commotion of Actors Backed by Antlered Herd.

CATS RAINED UPON HOUSE

FELINE PLOT FEATURE OF ANNUAL SHOW AT THEATRE.

More than one hundred Elks and the wives and children of Elks took part in "The Big Noise" at the Salt Lake theatre last night. The big noise on the stage was outdone by the "in of applause" from the audience. Every number was encoored without exception and without partiality. Said one enthusiastic spectator: "This is the best show the Elks have ever given, and I have seen them all. I would not miss one of them for ten times the money."

The Elks have a way of enlisting the best local talent for their performances that makes them entertaining to people who have no personal interest in the organization or in the performers. It may have been that this show seemed the best because the Elks are in the past and in part forgotten. But though there have been excellent entertainments each year, there are features of "The Big Noise" that undoubtedly surpass anything else that has been attempted. The numerous choruses were exceptionally well drilled, and gave some fine music. The great number of performers and the variety and attractiveness of the specialties outdone all former efforts.

In the audience, which filled the house, there was a large proportion of Elks and their friends. Undoubtedly every member of the organization will be present at one of the two performances, but large as the local membership is, it could not account for the attendance last evening nor that expected Saturday night, when the second performance will be given. Every year the Elks show attracts players who like a mixture of drama and fun and local hits done in the excellent fashion for which their performances are noted.

Horde of Cats Leased.

The curtain rose upon the performers bunched in tiers upon the stage. The first number was "The Last Rehearsal." The

KILL EVERY ONE

National Crusade Against Dandruff Gerns Now Being Waged in America.

"The dandruff germ is the greatest American pest of today," declares one of the world's greatest scientists and students of diseases of the hair, in a recent interview he said: "If the germs of the dandruff are not soon annihilated, the United States will some day be known as the hairless nation. The Americans must wage a relentless war of extermination at once, and I am going to help them."

"My recipe for killing dandruff germs, well known as Parisian Sage, is now being manufactured in the United States."

"There is only one way to cure dandruff, and that is to kill the dandruff germs."

"There is only one preparation that will kill the germ, and that is Parisian Sage."

Parisian Sage is now manufactured in Buffalo, N. Y., by the Groux Mfg. Co., and agencies have been established in every town in America. You take no risk in buying a bottle of Parisian Sage. Schramm-Johnson Drugs, "The X-ray Substitutes," five stores, "where the cars stop," are the agents in this city, and they will guarantee Parisian Sage to cure dandruff, stop falling hair, remove all dandruff, stop itching, or money back. Parisian Sage is the most marvelous hair dressing and tonic; it makes the hair beautiful, soft and luxuriant in one week. It causes hair to grow. If the hair root is not altogether dead, the price is only five cents a bottle at Schramm-Johnson Drugs. "The X-ray Substitutes," five stores, "where the cars stop," or direct by express, charges prepaid, from Groux Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

program stated the time, place and plot, and promised when the time came to "turn the plot loose." It was done and the collection of cats about which there has been so much publicity in the last few days was turned loose in the audience. That was one feature that did not make a noise in the evening, who spent the rest of the evening in keeping out of the way of the cats. The numbers rehearsed, were "Ching-a-Ling" by a group of pretty young girls. They were called back repeatedly until it seemed that the performance would not get any farther. The program, however, was not a success. The first number, "Seven Years Ago," was a failure. The second, "The Venus Romney," "It's the Pretty Things You Say," again there was an enthusiastic applause, and little Miss Romney repeated her number four times. "Vot's Der Matter Mit Holme," by ten young ladies, made another hit with the same result.

Mrs. A. J. Davis gave "Blind Pig" in capital manner, and the children's chorus which assisted her, was a favorite of the evening. "Take Me Up With You, Dolly," by the Misses Gena, Covey and Norrine Robinson, was the last number of the "Rehearsal."

Minstrels Hold Forth.

Jim Leary's "One Night Stand Minstrel Troupe" occupied the remainder of the first half of the program. Seven performers, each one an artist of ability, gave the usual and some unusual minstrel specialties. Hits on the city council and prominent Salt Lakeers brought down the house.

One of the best songs of this act was "Good Evening, Caroline," by Harry Brain and Miss Eva Weber. Miss Weber's dancing was secured several times. A. J. Kisselburg, in his song, "I'm Sorry," made an excellent impression. His melodious voice, which has been heard in public several times of late, was greatly admired, and the rendition of this number was heartily appreciated. Mrs. Corinne Harris Hamner, Miss Florence Griffith, Miss Stella Frankland and Miss Dolly Christensen, who sang in this act, "I'm On My Way to Reno," by Dean Daynes, assisted by Miss Faith Redman and little Dolly Christensen, was another highly enjoyable number. Then W. G. Romney turned the plot and the cats.

The second half opened with a second delightful song by Mr. Kisselburg, entitled "The Lion and the Mouse." His charming baritone voice was heard to great advantage. "I've Taken Quite a Fancy to You," was splendidly given by six young women and an equal quantity of young men.

Toward the close of the evening one of the pleasing numbers was the song "Havana," Mrs. Corinne Harris Hamner, Edna Penrose regaled the audience with Scotch songs, which were quite Lauder-esque. Ben Redman added a humorous touch by rendering a sketch called "Daddy, the Man From Africa."

Sandwiched between other funny things was the address of welcome by Tom Honer, in which he found much opportunity for humor of as high merit as the rest of the funny sketches. "My Pony Boy," by J. C. Leary and M. O. Leary, was a pleasing chorus, and the chorus, "Heinie," by the high school girls, was likewise a very fascinating bit.

One of the best hits of the show, and one which will save for the last, was "I Want to Be a Drummer Boy," sung by Alice Newton, Marjorie Winter, Ellen Orisk, Tillie Wark, Mary Hayes, Ethel Dunbar, Vivian Pace and Eleanor Robinson.

A burlesque upon the snowball bat given between the company and the audience at the presentation of the "Alaskan" over the same night, a long time ago, the Elks presented a "fishball" battle that was far more ludicrous. This, with some minor hits done in an altogether pleasing entertainment.

Mr. Busch's Latest Plan.

Like all of the measures suggested and supported by the genius and energy of Adolph Busch, the benefit and pension proposition just devised by the great St. Louis brewer is as striking as it is original.

Mr. Busch proposes to create a fund for the employees of his business. This fund is not to be made up by monthly or weekly mites from the employees, but is to be supported generously by the open-handed employer. The 6,000 brewery workers will be the recipients of many benefits and assurances without being compelled to contribute anything but their loyalty and return.

There is in Mr. Busch's latest plan all of the elements of a genuine understanding between employer and employee. Most pension funds which reflect credit upon the employer are merely the creations of the employees themselves. The new plan put into effect by Mr. Busch is in reality a profit-sharing measure. The thousands of dollars which are to go annually to a fund for the employees to guarantee them and their loved ones against the pains of sickness and death are to come out of Mr. Busch's profits, and not out of the pockets of the individuals.

Here we have an example which might well be followed by heads of great industries in all parts of all countries. Taken from the St. Louis Times, February 24, 1910.

Reading—and when it seems advisable, answering—help wanted ads is not disloyalty to your present employer. For, if there's work you can do better, in which you can earn more than in doing his work, you owe it to him and to yourself to find it.

SALT LAKE THEATRE.

"The American Lord," a four-act comedy, by George H. Broadhurst and Charles T. Dacey, will be given three representations at the Salt Lake theatre during Charles B. Hanford's engagement, which commences next Monday and extends over the first half of the week. The supporting company has been carefully chosen, and the production, it is promised, will be both elaborate and complete. Monday and Wednesday nights and the Wednesday matinee will be devoted to "The American Lord," while on Tuesday night the classic drama will have Mr. Hanford's attention, for he is to give a single representation of "The Taming of the Shrew," preceded by "The Old Guard." The sale of seats opens at the box office today.

GRAND THEATRE.

Sherlock Holmes, in the "Sign of the Four," continues to do good business at the Grand theatre, with Theodore Lorch in the role of the detective. Mr. Lorch has appeared in this role before, and never seen to better advantage. There will be a matinee Saturday, beginning with a Sunday matinee, the offering at the Grand will be something far out of the ordinary, as Mr. Lorch has secured the latest success, "The Man Who Does Things."

COLONIAL THEATRE.

The engagement of "The Great Divide" at the Colonial is drawing to a close. Many people who admired Mr. Miller and his famous play when it was first produced in Salt Lake have availed themselves of the opportunity of seeing this beautiful drama at popular prices. There will be a matinee tomorrow afternoon, and the last performance will be given tomorrow night.

"THE LION AND THE MOUSE."

"The Lion and the Mouse," a play, American life, by Charles Klein, which has scored one of the greatest triumphs ever known in the American drama, will be presented here again in this city by Henry B. Harris on next Sunday at the Colonial. The dominant personalities in "The Lion and the Mouse" are John Burkett Ryder, known as "Ready Money" Ryder in the financial world, in which he is the acknowledged leader, and Shirley Rossmore, the daughter of Judge Rossmore, who, in his official capacity, has given a ruling adverse to the interests of the financial circle of which Ryder is the head. In retaliation, the magnates, with the aid of corrupt politicians, cause Judge Rossmore's temporary suspension from the bench, pending investigation into alleged fraudulent practices. Under an assumed name, Shirley Rossmore becomes an inmate of the home of John Burkett Ryder and, giving the writing of his biography as an excuse, she tries, with the aid of his own secret, to free him from the charge of fraud to impeach. When it is finally discovered that she, herself, is the daughter of this man, Ryder orders her from his house. The scene which follows this is unanimously and justly conceded to be one of the greatest ever written into drama. The head of the cast which Mr. Harris has selected for the presentation of this production is Walter Edwards and Carolyn Elbert. Much pleasure is anticipated in this engagement, as the role of "Ready Money" Ryder will be played by Walter Edwards (who will be remembered as being at the head of his own stock company in Salt Lake). He has made rapid strides in his profession, and is now conceded as one of America's best leading men.

all of the present programs at the Luna, Shubert and Elks theatres, and there will be an entire change of bill at tomorrow's matinee performances at all houses. The offerings next week in all of the houses promise to be exceptionally good, especially the Easter program at the Shubert theatre, which will include Pathé's hand-colored Passion play, and an illustrated astronomical lecture on Halley's comet by W. R. Hall.

BUNGALOW THEATRE.

The seat sale for "In the Bishop's Carriage," which will be the offering at the Bungalow next week, opened this morning, and, by the appearance of the crowd in front of the box office, capacity houses will rule this splendid piece. The opening performance will be Sunday evening, and the play will continue the week, with the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

MISSION THEATRE.

The new Mission bill, which opened at the matinee performance yesterday, presents an entertaining line of novelties. Victor's Comedy Circus, which includes a comedy skit, a novelty cycling act, mind reading, a comedy circus and a young woman's comedy, Bessie Val-dare and company of cyclists gave a series of spectacular evolutions on wheels. They did the handstands and a number of specialties that have not been presented here before. The six young women riding abreast on the back wheels, with the front ones elevated in a perpendicular line, made a hit with the audience, as did also the trick with the six one wheel girls riding in a circle about the stage. The riders worked hard to please, and well deserved the abundant applause that greeted them. The splendid piece, "The Bill with a Skit Entitled 'Six in Service,'" it was an amusing story of a young woman who advised her cook and then discussed herself and applied for the place. Her husband learned of the plan, and he and the cook, who were both in the audience, and for the benefit of the audience, Marie Fitzgibbon, styled "Chorus Eccentric," gave more stories than songs. Some of them were good laugh makers, and her songs were well received, although her voice is not melodious. Later a young German mind reader, described articles of jewelry loaned by the audience in a box accurately. She also did amazing feats with numbers printed on a sheet. It was undoubtedly a mechanical trick, depending upon memory system; but, in any case, it was beyond the ability of the audience to decipher. Victor's Comedy Circus, of two small ponies and the trick mule, closed the program. The ponies were well trained, and the mule, probably not so dangerous as he appeared. Otherwise, the three boys who tried to ride him would have been killed outright in the first round. A prize of one dollar a minute is offered to the person who succeeds in riding the mule for five successive minutes Friday night. From the performance yesterday, it would appear that Professor Hickey's money is safe.

"THE FIFTH COMMANDMENT."

Julius Steger, that rare avist of the American stage—an actor who can really sing, and a singer who can really act—presented, general request, his well known play, "The Fifth Commandment," at the Orpheum last night. Mr. Steger upheld his reputation as a man who wields a singular power over audiences. He is an artist of the highest type. Always true to life in word and gesture, no wonder he has gained an enormous following all over the country. He sings with a voice of splendid quality, and no one can phrase a song with just that soulfulness. His support is good. Miss Earl, barring a tendency to overact in certain spots, is a very clever and pretty girl. Mr. Hollingsworth fails to convince as did his predecessor in the part. He is too stagey, and his enunciation is hard and at times indistinct. Mr. Romano's happy playing adds greatly to the enjoyment of Mr. Steger's offering.

MONEY FROM MEXICO FOR R. B. LEWIS

We collected $310.00 for Mr. R. B. Lewis, the coal man, of Ogden, from a gentleman in Mexico. The money had been owing about fourteen years. The claim was placed with us for collection about five years ago. Most of this time was taken up in tracing the delinquent. When we found him, he cheerfully paid. If you turn in your claim we will collect some money for you. The more claims you turn in the more money we will collect. We operate the largest Debt Refinery in the World. Debts placed with us for collection are treated to all the different processes developed during the past seventeen years' experience, and to the new processes developed from time to time, until the Golden Streams of Delight appear. We use the Red Streak of Honesty Process; it brings back gold.
